DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 3 and 6 are objected to because of the following informalities: Claims 3 and 6 should depend from claims 2 and 5 respectively to provide antecedent basis for “the received signal strength”; OR “the received signal strength” should be “the received signals”. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Garceran et al., US Patent Number 6,522,888 (hereinafter Garceran).

Regarding claims 1 and 4, Garceran discloses a mobile wireless monitoring device comprising: an antenna for receiving signals from a monitored source; a channel quality measurement device configured, to measure an uncompensated channel quality of the received signals; a location determining device for determining the geographic location of the mobile wireless monitoring device; and a processor, in communication with the location determining device and the channel quality measuring device, the processor configured to receive and store the uncompensated channel quality measurements and a location for the uncompensated channel quality measurements using the determined locations [fig. 4; col. 2: lines 7-42; col. 3: lines 15-32; col. 6: lines 32-58]

Regarding claims 2 and 5, Garceran discloses the channel quality measurements include received signal strength, interference and Doppler shift [col. 4: lines 8-20]

Regarding claims 3 and 6, Garceran suggests the mobile wireless monitoring device does not utilize outer loop power control when measuring the received signal strength [col. 4: lines 15-20].

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claim 17 is allowed. Prior art has not been found that suggests or renders obvious the disclosed mobile wireless monitoring device comprising a channel quality measurement device configured to measure the received signal code power of the primary common control physical channel, the interference signal code power, and the path loss for the primary common control physical channel of the received signals.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed June 22, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding claims 1 and 4, Applicant argues that Garceran does not teach a "channel quality measurement device for measuring an uncompensated channel quality of received signals. The Examiner respectfully disagrees as Garceran clearly teaches this limitation. Garceran teaches "signal quality measurements....made at the wireless unit" [col. 3: lines 15-22]. Regarding claims 3 and 6, Applicant argues that the mobile wireless monitoring device does not use outer loop power control when measuring the received signal strength. Since Garceran does not disclose that it does use outer loop power control, it is suggested that it does not use it. Therefore, Garceran reads on the claimed limitation. In response to applicant's argument that the references fail to show certain features of applicant's invention, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., that disabling power control provides an accurate representation of the actual SIR and a clear indication of the relative change in SIR) are not recited in the rejected claim(s). Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993).
